DETAILED ACTION

1. This is a non-final first Office action on the merits. Currently, claims 1-20 are pending.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 101

2. 35 U.S.C. 101 reads as follows:

Whoever invents or discovers any new and useful process, machine, manufacture, or composition of matter, or any new and useful improvement thereof, may obtain a patent therefor, subject to the conditions and requirements of this title.

3. Claims 15-20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 because the claimed invention is directed to non-statutory subject matter.

Claims 15-20 recite a computer program product in a computer readable medium comprising instructions. The limitations as claimed are non-functional descriptive material because they do not cause a computer to execute the instructions. Because instructions on a computer readable medium could simply constitute text, the limitations as claimed do not produce a useful, concrete, and tangible final result without executing the instructions on a computer.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

4. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(c) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

5. Claims 1, 3-10, 12-15, and 17-20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by U.S. pre-grant publication number 2005/0043985 to Gillespie (“Gillespie”).

Claims 1, 9, 10, & 15: Gillespie discloses a method, system (see paragraph 36: lines 31-34 for system components), and computer program product (see id.) in a data processing system for providing a consulting assessment environment, the method comprising:

- receiving data about a business through a questionnaire, wherein the questionnaire is defined by a data template (see paragraph 36: lines 10-23, disclosing a survey system to present questions and receive responses regarding a business; paragraph 37, disclosing customizing the survey questions);
- computing at least one assessment score based on formulas in an assessment framework template (see paragraph 38: lines 1-15, disclosing evaluating responses and generating a score based on the responses; paragraphs 43-51, disclosing specific calculations)
- determining an appropriate action based on the at least one assessment score and a suggested actions template (see paragraph 38: lines 8-15, disclosing providing the user with a recommendation; paragraph 43); and
- reporting results based on the at least one assessment score and the appropriate action in accordance with a report template, wherein the assessment framework template and the suggested actions template encode business-related domain knowledge (see paragraph 38: lines 8-30, disclosing reporting results to users; paragraph 52; paragraph 56) including at least one of best practices, business consultant expertise, and business goals (see paragraph 37: disclosing customizing a survey and evaluation based on an administrator's input).

Claims 3, 12, & 17: Gillespie discloses identifying benefits and risks based on the at least one assessment score and the appropriate action (see paragraphs 39, 52, and 56, disclosing determining the merits and costs; paragraph 54).

Claims 4, 13, & 18: Gillespie discloses consolidating portions of the results together for further analysis (see paragraph 38: lines 15-19; paragraphs 42 and 54).

Claims 5, 14, & 19: Gillespie discloses providing an interface for a client to conduct a self-assessment (see paragraph 36: lines 31-34).

Claim 6: Gillespie discloses wherein the data template includes at least one of interview questions (see paragraph 37), weighing factors (see paragraph 37), desired states, benefit descriptions (see paragraph 54), risk descriptions, suggested actions (see paragraph 42), cost areas (see paragraph 54), and terminology.

Claim 7: Gillespie discloses wherein the assessment framework template includes at least one of scoring information (see paragraphs 43-51), calculations (see id.), suggested actions logic (see id.), benefit and risk logic (see id.), user feedback (see id.), and user input (see id.).

Claims 8 & 20: Gillespie discloses wherein at least one of the data template, the assessment framework template, the suggested actions template, and the report template are made inaccessible to at least one user (see paragraph 37, disclosing allowing an administrator to customize surveys; paragraph 38: lines 25-30, disclosing "designated" users and "authorized" employees).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

6. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

7. Claims 2, 11, and 16 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Gillespie in view of U.S. pre-grant publication number 2002/0173999 to Griffor et al (“Griffor”).

Claims 2, 11, & 16: Gillespie does not explicitly disclose:

- determining a current state of the business based on the data;
- identifying a desired state for the business using the assessment framework template and the suggested actions template; and
- performing a gap analysis between the current state of the business and the desired state of the business to determine the appropriate action to achieve the desired state for the business.

Griffor teaches brining the current state of a business into alignment with its goals and purposes via a consulting process that determines appropriate actions required for that alignment (see paragraphs 15-19).

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to apply the teachings of Griffor to the invention of Gillespie in order to take actions that would align a business with its goals. One of ordinary skill in the art would have been motivated to do so for the benefit of more efficient management of opportunities (see Gillespie, paragraph 1).
